High School vs. College

High School

- Teachers continuously remind you about assignments
- No course syllabus (generally)
- You are allowed to turn things in late
- Material from your textbook is taught in class
- Missing for illness/extracurricular activities are 'excused' and students are allowed to make up work

College

- It is your responsibility to keep up with deadlines
- Syllabus is VITAL
- Assignment due dates are final, format matters!
- You are expected to read and learn course materials and be prepared to use that knowledge
- Absences are not 'excused' necessarily. it is instructor's discretion

College Expectations

- You should be in class every day
- You should check Canvas and Office365 every weekday
- Only excuse instructors MAY accept is...
 - A death in the immediate family
 - A medical emergency
- If you need accommodations to be successful, you must apply for them. There is no such thing as retroactive accommodations.

In high school, learning is instructor-led.

In college, learning is student-led.

ADVICE FROM THE PROFESSIONALS

Some college instructors will be more difficult than others - rise to the challenge

Your high school teachers, your career coaches, and your instructors, and maybe someone in your family has been to college before – ask them for advice!

Your syllabus is a CONTRACT. Save it. Print it off. Tattoo it to the insides of your eyelids.

You will struggle, but that is normal. You've got this!

The key is not the will to win.
Everybody has that.
It is the will to prepare to win
that is important.
